

The Electrical Experimenter

The Electrical Experimenter was an American technical science magazine that was published monthly. ... The Electrical Experimenter continued from May 1913 to July 1920 under that name, focusing on scientific articles about radio, and continued with a broader focus as Science and Invention until August 1931.

However this issue is a special- it contains article on Tesla Tower (Blows up!) and on to interesting secret antennas from 1917...

So I decided paste the magazine in the Antentop Library.
